WESTERN CLUB HELD MEETING LAST NIGHT

Sir Arthur Currie Guest of Honor.

SMALL ATTENDANCE.

One of Most Enjoyable Functions in History of the Club.

Despite a most regrettably small attendance, the Western Club dinner in the Union last night was an unquestionable success. It need only be said that those members of the club who did not attend the dinner are themselves to blame for missing a most enjoyable evening. The executive of the club exerted every effort to make the dinner a success. Insofar as it was possible for them to do so, they were indeed successful. It goes without saying that the ruling factor in the success of such a dinner is the full support of the members. Most unfortunately this factor was lacking last night to a great degree. This is furthermore regrettable in view of the fact that the club was privileged in having Sir Arthur Currie as the guest of the evening. As a result of an unfortunate misunderstanding, the dinner did not receive the usual amount of publicity, and it is hoped by the executive that the poor attendance may be attributed to this rather than to lack of interest among the members.

An excellent dinner was served by the Union Cafeteria, and immediately after the business of the meeting was dispensed with. As the secretary was not present, the minutes of the last meeting were left over to be dealt with at some future time. The treasurer, T. M. Jones, at the request of the president, read his report concerning the dance held in conjunction with the Maritime Club before Xmas. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $12.60 after all expenses in connection with the dance had been paid. Mr. O'Meara suggested that this surplus be refunded to the members of the dance committee with the exception of himself, as he received a complimentary ticket. The meeting unanimously agreed with the president that the remaining members of the committee who had not received complimentary tickets be refunded their money out of this surplus in recognition of their very successful efforts and hard work in connection with the dance. A motion was moved and passed, thanking the dance committee as a whole for their energetic and successful work.

MEETING TO-DAY ORGANIZES PARL.

In the Union at 5 p.m. — A Matter of Importance.

As previously announced the organization meeting of the Mock Parliament will be held in the left hand dining hall of the Union this afternoon at five o'clock. Arrangements have been made to have tea served to those who wish it, so that these good men will not miss their accustomed stimulant.

A general discussion as to the best policy to be followed in the Parliament this year will occupy part of the meeting's deliberations, but most important will be the election of a man to lead the Government, and also a leader of the Opposition to make things lively and interesting. A great deal of importance will be attached to these selections, since it might be said that the whole success of the Mock Parliament will depend on them; it is therefore to be hoped that those coming to the meeting and voting in the selection will have their minds at least partly made up as to the men they wish in charge of affairs.

The news that the services of Dr. Leacock have been secured as Governor-General, must be received with a great deal of satisfaction and delight. We can feel assured that he will carry the weighty dignity of his

GOOD EXHIBITIONS.

Winners Will Be Eligible For the Finals on Wednesday Night.

The Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing preliminaries will take place at the Union this evening. The several bouts are sure to be keenly contested to enable the men to qualify for the finals, which will take place on Wednesday night. A large attendance is expected and desired. We wish to again remind the men to refrain from smoking during the bouts, as smoke is very injurious and detrimental to good showing.

The Wrestling matches will render many exciting bouts, as some very good material has been signed up. MacKeen, the intercollegiate heavyweight champion, has not yet found an opponent, but he is in good fettle. Bain is another man who can make things very exciting.

The men, as arranged in their classes, are as follows:

110 lbs.—Phelan
Bryant
Proctor
118 lbs.—McDonald
Reid
125 lbs.—Mathews
Clement
135 lbs.—Mader
Howes
Currie
Irvine
Taprell
145 lbs.—Emmons
Mitchell
Montgomery
McNaughton
158 lbs.—Bain
Armstrong
Mitchell
175 lbs.—Rumple
Freedman
Vineberg
Heavyweight—MacKeen.

The Fencing programme for the eliminations and finals will consist of four bouts. Two of these will take place to-night and two finals on Wednesday. Although it is not quite decided yet, it will be the winners of the above bouts who will represent McGill at the coming Assault-at-Arms.

These bouts will be judged and refereed in true intercollegiate style. The judges will include some very prominent fencers of Montreal, including Monsieur Raimondi, at one time instructor of fencing at Oxford.

The contestants for honors will consist chiefly of men who have had two years' experience in this sport. The names of the contestants are as follows:
Simpson
Budden
Walter
M. Crestohl.

FAST GAMES IN THE ARENA LAST NIGHT

Two City League Hockey Games Played.

PERFECT ICE.

Shamrock and M.A.A.A. Victors Over Victorias and St. Ann's.

M.A.A.A. continued their winning streak by last night defeating the strong St. Ann's aggregation, so placing themselves as sure contenders for City League honors. The first game of the evening, between M.A.A.A. and St. Ann's, resulted in a score of 6-2 for the Winged Wheelers, and in the second game the Shamrock team turned the tables on the Victorias by defeating them to the tune of 5-3.

Both games were very interesting and were full of thrills and sensational play throughout. With a perfect sheet of ice, the going was fast from the start, and the fast clip set at the beginning of the game was maintained during the two contests. Although the first game was very exciting and interesting, the main attention was centered on the match between Shamrocks and Victorias, who were contending for the position of runners-up to the victorious M.A.A.A. sextette.

The puck was faced for the first game between M.A.A.A. and St. Ann's before a fairly large crowd. It seemed evident from the start that the league leaders would continue their winning streak, but the plucky St. Ann's team put up a very stiff fight, and at times kept their opponents guessing by their clever stickhandling and individual rushes. Right from the start, play was fast, and in three minutes after the puck was faced, King succeeded in tallying the first goal of the evening, when he put M.A.A.A. in the lead. Ducloux, St. Ann's clever forward, came down the ice several times in sensational end to end rushes only to be foiled by the M.A.A.A. defence. Almost immediately after, Brady of St. Ann's tied the score, and the play continued fast and exciting. The goal-tenders of both teams were called upon to make some very hard stops, and they both put up a fine exhibition in the nets. Five minutes later, in a mix-up in front of the nets, King tallied his second goal and made it 2-1 for M.A.A.A. Play slowed up for an instant and then was resumed again at a fast clip. King again put the puck past Marsden, the new St. Ann's goaler, and the first period ended—3-1 for M.A.A.A.
In less than a minute after the

JUNIORS WIN IN R. V. C. GAME

Fast Hockey Played on the Women's Rink.

In a fast game last night on the Women's Rink, the Juniors defeated the Freshies with a score of 7-0. Miss M. Fry scored 3 goals, Miss E. Snyder 2, Miss V. Foley 2, and Miss Ted Rough 1.

The Juniors showed good team play and Miss Fry and Miss Snyder showed excellent combination. During most of the game the puck was around the Freshie goal. The First Year team, however, showed great promise. Miss M. Elliot was the outstanding player on the team. She handled her stick well and played a very intelligent game. Miss E. L. Herzberg, as defence, saved the situation several times, playing well and steady. Miss M. MacLaren deserves credit for the many stops she made.

The game was closer than the score would indicate. Several times there were mix-ups in front of the First Year goal. In the first and second periods the combination was not as good as in the last period, when the play became more open.

The line-up was as follows:
M. Fry.....defence E. L. Herzberg
V. Zealand....defence...M. Cameron
T. Rough....right wing...R. Trant
V. Foley....left wing...M. Elliot
E. Snyder....centre...C. Robertson

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1921.

STUDYING THE OTHER FELLOW

In no small degree must the leaders of thought and action in every generation be students of human nature. However, to study man and the problems connected with his habitation and aspirations, has perplexed the most astute minds that have yet been produced. Again, the separation of a true man from his work seems an impossibility, his actions and life are so entwined about that which he is doing that the task is a reproduction of the man himself.

We read our Burns and Byron, our Shelley and Wordsworth, with a constant recollection of each poet's life and history; but the knowledge of that history is not derived from any formal biography, so much as from the vital and unconscious record which is enlaid in the writings which they have given. It is this personal element that maintains in undiminished freshness and vitality of charm writings such as these; and while men use many books for their knowledge, and praise many books for their wisdom, they love only those books which speak to the inner-self, because they have been spoken from the inner-self.

Thus, we study humanity and profit by our learning. Knowledge in the abstract is unknown, and is not confined to any particular individual or group of individuals, therefore, every true student can profitably meditate on the curious elements and accidents by which the strange structure of individuality is built up. Shakespeare affirms that with the loss of individuality all greatness goes, whereas Ruskin exhorts us to brood over the "Abysmal depths of personality."

It is true that Psychologists show a distinction between personality and individuality, yet, they run very closely and when taken together constitute self. There is always something, in every phase of life, which in the study of human nature, we may advantageously learn of the other fellow's temperament, intellectuality, skill or morality.

In a few days McGill will once again compete with Varsity for titular honors. Hockey, like rugby, is classed as one of the major contests of intercollegiate sports, and the first game on Saturday night will undoubtedly bring out a large number of supporters.

It is not enough that men should merely support the various athletic contests, in order to see their own particular team win the desired laurels, however inspiring such an object may be, but even in such a crucial time something beneficial may be learnt from the other fellow, by close regard of his method of play, for this will to a greater or less degree show how he plays the big game. Take, for instance, the hockey player. His defence may be superb, or his individual play unexcelled—in fact he may be our beau ideal; but should we chance to see our idol take a slight mean advantage, contrary to the well-known rules of the game, whether seen or unseen by the referee, he may still be in our eyes a star, but it is impossible to forget that lone slip. We may admire the man's play but scarcely the man.

It is not a far cry from the stadium to the greater stage of life. "Man in his time plays many parts" and it is difficult for the old actor to right about face. The traits of childhood invariably appear in the adult, and the clean game of the youthful sportsman predicts not only a similar mode of action in after life, but gives to the on-looker a strengthened faith in the possibility of a regenerated mankind.

THE ASSAULT-AT-ARMS

The B., W. and F. Eliminations which are beginning to-night should be given the hearty support of the whole student body. It is imperative that they should be carried through successfully if we are to turn out a competent team for the Intercollegiate meet and this can only be done by the earnest co-operation of every student either by entering for the various events or by attending the bouts and adding enthusiasm by his encouragement.

To-night's events promise to be well worth seeing from a spectacular point of view. There are numerous entrants, all of whom have been training assiduously during the past few weeks and each class is well represented. To-morrow the College championship will be decided and this promises even more excitement—the standard of

By Gen.

Fellow Class Matters:

Leave me amble 4th to renounce that to-night's the night for the big Elimination Boxin', wrestlin' and fencin' contexts which scimes goin' to be pulled off at the Union meetin' place.

All them students what don't attend in persons gotta get a good written excuse in writin' from the Janitor of their buildin' and mail same to me, care of Faculty of Laws, last seat second row from the door. At that, I reckon I won't have to employ no secretary to handle the mail 'cause 'Fightin' Harry Edelberg's goin' to meet one or all in the feather weighin' class. Edets a co-colleague of mine on the McGill "Daily" journal newspaper, and if anybody asks you, he sure does lug around a spiteful lunch-hook. There's lots of yakos round the McGill what could give Edel the razzoo in a game of parchesi, but in a reglar catch-as-catch-can boxin' bout, look out for your little self.

In addition to this Battlin' Jack Long, the "Canal Barge Terror" will argue his case skillful, to say nothin' at all about Dave McKean, Sammy Ellasophy and a hostess of others.

It's jest my durn luck that I dated up with a little bunch of fluff to take her down to the M. E. Church Box Social to-night, but if it's within the bonds of plausibility, I'll shunt her on to a sidin' and attend the context in full dressed evenin' clothes.

ECONOMISTS HAVE KEEN DISCUSSION

Open Meeting of Club Will Take Place in March.

The Political Economy Club held a most interesting and well attended meeting last evening in the Arts Building. Before the paper was read, Dr. Leacock rose to address a few remarks to the meeting. He spoke of the coming open meeting in the first week in March, at which Mr. E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has consented to act as chairman. This gathering will serve as a drawing card for graduates particularly, and any outsiders interested are most cordially urged to attend. Last year the proceedings of the open meeting were of the greatest moment, and it is hoped and confidently expected that this session's will be even a greater occasion. Probably, if suitable arrangements can be completed, the lounge room of the Union will be reserved.

J. C. Farthing read the paper of the evening: "The Council of Active and Extra-Parliamentary Institutions. He dwelt at length upon the significance and importance of the labor movements taking place, especially in England, and touched upon certain political and social aspects of the question. Any attempt at a summary of such a topic would be useless, and because of the impossibility of having a full printing of the paper, no adequate idea of its content can be conveyed. Suffice it to say, that the speaker dealt with the problem in a most comprehensive and detailed manner.

After considerable discussion the meeting adjourned.

for the Elimination. Entries will be taken up till this hour from men showing good cause for delay. The regular list closes at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

FOOTBALL PICTURE.

Football executive picture at Notman's, 12.30 p.m., on Wednesday, Feb. 2nd.

ELIMINATIONS.

The Semi-Finals of the College Championships, B., W. and F., take place this evening at the Union at 8.15 sharp. The admission is 25c, and there are no reserved seats. First come, first served.

PHILOSOPHERS.

A meeting of the Philosophers of McGill will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 1st, at 8.15 p.m. sharp, at Strathcona Hall. Professor Mackay, M.A., LL.B., B.C.L., Ph.D., will deliver an address on the "Higher Humanism," which promises to be very instructive and highly interesting, seeing that Dr. Mackay is an authority on philosophical problems. All students of all faculties and ladies of R.V.C. are invited to attend, also all outsiders interested. A discussion will follow the address.

FANCY SKATING.

The McGill fancy skating club will meet as usual to-night at 8 p.m. A hurdy-gurdy will provide music—so all out!

A meeting to organize the Mock Parliament has been called for to-day at 5 o'clock, in the Union.

LAWYERS LOSE TO ENGINEERS IN FAST GAME

Science '24 Had No Substitutes—Played Cautiously.

CLEAN HOCKEY.

Good Work of Both Goalkeepers Keep Score Down to 2-0.

In a closely contested and fairly fast game Science '24 defeated Law by the score of 2-0. This was Law's first game and they needed a victory to keep them in the race. On account of the absence of any substitutes Science played a defensive game as soon as they had obtained a one goal lead.

For the budding Engineers, Rochester put up a stone-wall defense in goal. Luxton and McGillis were both very effective in back-checking and puck-carrying. Lawrence also did good work though evidently not in the best of condition. O'Halloran, Law's goalkeeper, was their outstanding star. He stopped long shots and close ones and the goals scored on him were unavoidable. Nicholson, Chisholm and McGillis also distinguished themselves.

For the first ten minutes the game was very even. Then Science began to press. Luxton received a nasty blow on the nose but continued to play. One minute before the close of the period Lawrence rushed through alone and scored the first goal for Science.

For the first ten minutes of the final period Science were hard pressed by Law's furious onslaught. The "Bar"-men used substitutes frequently whereas the "plumbers" were forced to play without relief. Finally in fourteen minutes Luxton rushed and shot; McGillis scored by batting in the rebound. From this time on Science regained their form and kept the play up at their opponents' end till the close of the game, though Law tried five man combination in an attempt to even it up.

The line-up:

Science '24	Law '21-'22

On their present showing, Arts '23 should beat Law '21-'22 to-night, while Science '24 should beat Dents '23. In the first game, Arts must win if they are to keep up with the leaders, while Law will be practically out of the race should they lose.

DIOCESAN VS. WESLEYANS.

The Diocesan House team defeated the Wesleyan representatives in a very one-sided hockey game last Friday by a score of 10-1. Kelloway, of the Wesleyans, was the speediest man on the ice, while Conner and Wilson starred for the winning team.

This week the Congregationals play the Wesleyans, while Diocesan meets the Preb.

McGILL TO ENTER QUE. CHAMPIONSHIP

Snowshoers Meet on Saturday at 2 p.m.

TEAM FOR DARTMOUTH

Strong Line-Up of Track Men Will Meet M.A.A.A. and N.A.A.A.

Next Saturday afternoon the Malsonneuve grounds will be the scene of the Quebec Championship meet to be held by the Canadian Snowshoe Union, in which McGill will enter a team to compete against the M.A.A.A. and National A.A.A. These last two clubs have been giving some strenuous training to their representatives so that the McGill boys who will compete will have a good opportunity to exhibit their mettle.

For some time past members of the McGill club have been undergoing stiff practices under the coaching of Mr. Gentleman, the well-known local snowshoe champion. Any men desirous of taking part in this meet are urgently requested to turn out at Molson Hall to-night and any other night at 5 p.m. Entry forms may be obtained from R. L. Hamilton, Med. '23.

The Students' Council have offered to send two representatives to compete at Dartmouth Carnival which will be held during the second week of the month. The two members for this team will be chosen from the men making the best showing in the Quebec Championships.

Several entries have been made to date which includes many of the track team champions such as Dave Johnson, J. C. Simpson, R. L. Hamilton, while with men like Stephens, Creelman, Ross and Noonan, the club hopes to carry off a fair share of the honors in the meet. The events include sprints, middle and distance runs as well as a three mile "hike" and a hurdle race in all of which there are entries from the McGill squad. So here's wishing them the best.

It might be added that arrangements are being made with the Ski Club to have a number of races during their carnival the last of the month.

It is hoped to make an announcement within the next few days regarding a tramp.

MEDICAL DANCE PROMISES MUCH

Students From Other Universities Will Be Guests.

Arrangements are now nearly complete to ensure the success of the Medical Dance. Special decorations are being carried out, and particular attention is being paid to the sitting out rooms, which will no doubt, prove popular.

Those attending are again reminded that each man is expected to give up one dance to our guests. This is of the utmost importance, and each man must consider it an honor and a privilege to exchange a dance with our guests from other Universities.

Kindly get in touch with your class representative as soon as possible this morning in order that he may allot you a dance.

A point which has raised considerable discussion is the fact that students of other faculties possess tickets, while those in Medicine and Dentistry are unable to obtain them. This was brought about through the switching of tickets which were originally purchased by medical students.

This is a dance given by the Medical students for Medical and Dental students, and any man not in either of these faculties will positively not be admitted to this dance.

As each man must be identified and must register on entering, none will be overlooked. Therefore, anybody possessing a ticket without the proper qualifications will save himself $5 by returning his ticket to any member of the committee at once.

An attractive programme has been drawn up. The order of dances to be announced to-morrow.

office with all due seriousness and circumspection. Other arrangements to provide other officers are going forward with success, the selection of two pages and most important of all a competent speaker, have however, not yet been made. A complete programme will be published after the preliminary organization meeting to-day, and a conference of the party leaders and the "Lit" executive which will immediately follow

Sir Arthur Currie, the guest of the evening, was introduced by Dr. Todd, the honorary president of the club. The members present were not backward in showing their hearty appreciation in having Sir Arthur present with them, and the applause when the Principal arose to address the meeting was worthy of the Western Club as a whole.

After a few words with reference to Western Canada, in which he classed himself as a Westerner both in sympathies and tastes, Sir Arthur proceeded to speak on the topic next in the interests of those present, namely, McGill. Special reference was made to the recent campaign, and the Principal pointed out many interesting details with reference to the collection and disposal of the money subscribed by the many McGill sympathizers all over Canada. Sir Arthur pointed out that the disposal of these funds was a particularly difficult task, inasmuch as there were so many demands of equal importance and, of course, only a limited amount of money with which to meet them. One particular instance which he cited was the conditions imposed in connection with the Rockefeller grant of one million dollars. This grant involves the further expenditure of nine hundred thousand dollars from University funds on Medical buildings. This matter, in conjunction with many others, the Principal remarked rendered the task of proper and fair distribution of the Campaign funds a very knotty one, and sufficient to make the person with the task on his hands lose no small amount of sleep.

Sir Arthur closed his speech by wishing all the members of the club the very best of luck at college, and emphasized upon all the importance of combining the experience and lessons learned at college into ideals which would modify extreme tendencies when in the outer world. Sir Arthur finally called upon all Westerners to co-operate with the University authorities in making McGill a university fully worthy of Canada and the Empire. At the close of his speech, the Principal was loudly applauded in a way that would signify that all those present were fully ready to give the University authorities and Sir Arthur in particular their most loyal support. A word of thanks and assurance of loyalty from the club by the president was a signal for another outburst of applause.

H. O'Hagan moved a vote of thanks to Sir Arthur for honoring the club with his company for the evening. This motion was seconded by Wheldon and unanimously passed by the meeting. After a few words from O'Meara concerning the poor attendance, the meeting closed with the McGill yell and three cheers for Sir Arthur Currie.

Without a doubt, last night's meeting was the most successful ever held by the Western Club in the form of a dinner, despite the rather poor attendance, which it is hoped will never detract from the unqualified success of another meeting.

W. H. GOODWIN AT HALL.

The regular meeting of the Student Volunteers will be held on Wednesday evening at 7.30 in Strathcona Hall.

Mr. W. H. Goodwin, who is well known in student circles, has very kindly consented to give some of his impressions of missionary activities which he received during his recent visit to Japan.

Mr. Goodwin spent some weeks in visiting the various mission stations throughout the country, living with the missionaries and getting an insight into their life and work. What he will say will be of special interest, being a business man's impressions of the work of the Church in the foreign field.

No student who is interested in this work can afford to miss this address.

Wednesday, 7.30 p.m., Strathcona Hall.

Ten Minutes With The Principal

Sir Arthur Currie has the happy faculty of making the reporter feel at home immediately he enters the precincts of the Principal's office. Yesterday afternoon he first waved aside all questions and paid the "Daily" a distinct compliment by congratulating the College Journal on the excellence of its editorials, especially that of Monday, entitled "The Parting of the Ways."

The Principal then stated that the general feeling concerning the Department of Commerce is that in all likelihood it will become a separate Faculty at the beginning of the session 1921-22. Sir Arthur said he was not inclined to answer some of the questions put to him, as the Governors' building plans, returned men's fees, and appointments to new chairs and departments. Various committees are working on matters of vital interest to the University at large, and there will be some definite announcements shortly.

Reference was made to the Conference of Physicists held at the University of Toronto last week, when Physicists from all parts of Canada and the United States gathered together. A similar meeting is contemplated being held at McGill next year. The Principal wished it made known that Dr. L. V. King, Associate Professor of Physics, is soon to deliver a series of lectures at Queen's University; while Dr. A. L. Hughes, Professor of Physics there, is coming to McGill for the same purpose.

Sir Arthur said he was pleased at the formation of the Players' Club, and wished it every success. He remarked that Dr. H. M. Tory, President of the University of Alberta, and Dr. Rankin, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, both graduates of McGill, were in the city, and had been to see him.

The Principal wished all students the best of results in the recent examinations, and expressed the hope that any failures would be made good by hard work before the April examinations. He was kind enough to freely discuss many general subjects, and was greatly interested in all matters pertaining to the general life of the College.

Puck was faced in the second period, Jupp made it 4-1 for his team, and so gave the M.A.A.A. team a considerable lead. It was an easy shot that slipped past Marsden. Play became rougher and was signalized by heavy checking on both sides. Some wild shooting followed during this period, and finally Brady scored his second goal, and the score at the end of the second period stood at 4-2 for M.A.A.A.

At the start of the third period Penny was bombarded with shots, but he managed to block them all, and the strong efforts of the St. Ann's forwards were in vain. In a mix-up in front of St. Ann's goals, Jupp slipped the puck in for M.A.A.A.'s fifth goal, and in less than a minute McGill tallied for the Winged Wheel team, and the new score of 6-2 stood to the end of the game.

For the winners, Jupp and King were easily the outstanding players, together with Penny, who played a sterling game in the M.A.A.A. nets. For St. Ann's, Duclous and Brady played very good hockey, and were at all times dangerous and effective.

The line-ups were as follows:

M.A.A.A.	St. Ann's
any.....Goal.....	Marsden
Short.....Defence.....	Norton
Anderson.....Defence.....	Boiselle
Arnold.....Centre.....	Brady
King.....Forward.....	Duclous
Bell.....Forward.....	Tynan
McGill.....Sub.....	Robert
Jupp.....Sub.....	Zadhe
Wieland.....Sub.....

The second game was even more exciting and spectacular than the first. Shamrocks and Victorias, old rivals, started the pace right from the facings of the puck and continued during the whole game at this clip. The Victorias showed more combined team work, but they were unable to hold the Irishmen, who defeated them to the tune of 5-3.

Shink started the scoring for the Shamrocks, but Parsons tallied and tied the score. At this juncture the players were inclined to mix it, and some severe body checking and slashing was therefore evident. Desbien, who starred throughout the game for Shamrocks, came back and placed his team ahead by putting a hard one past Muldan. After two minutes, Desbien repeated this performance, and Shamrocks now had a commanding lead of 3-1 when the gong rang for the end of the first period.

The second period opened with a rush down the ice by the Shamrocks' forwards, and in less than a minute Shink made it 4-2 for the Irishmen. The Victorias, undaunted, came back strongly, and, after a successful combination attack, following another goal for the Shamrocks by Davins, Heney scored the second goal for the Victorias, and the score now stood at 5-2. Substitutes were used by both sides during this period, and both goalies distinguished themselves by some remarkable stops. The combined attacks of the Shamrocks' forward were repeatedly overcome by the Victoria defence, and at the end of the period the score remained the same, with the Victorias unable to overcome their opponents' lead.

The third period was the fastest in the game. Parsons started the pace with several end to end rushes, but he could not get the puck past the Shamrock's goal-minder, who had no trouble in blocking them. Shamrocks began to play a defensive game, with the result that their opponents' attacks were easily broken up. Play was, however, not confined entirely to any end of the rink, and the players on each side tried to force the play without any result in the scoring. Parsons, who was conspicuous throughout, came to blows with one of the Shamrock men as a consequence of their frequent encounters, and it looked at one time as if it would develop into a free-for-all fight. They both drew penalties, and after a short time Victorias managed to slip one past Lukeman, and when the final gong sounded the score was 5-3 for the Shamrocks.

Donald Smith, star of many a professional hockey game of the past, handled both games in perfect satisfaction.

The line-ups were as follows:

Victorias	Shamrocks

Parsons.....Forward.....	Davins
Davies.....Forward.....	Shink

THE SOAP BOX

MUSIC AND PLEASURE.

Music, it has been said, is of all the arts the one most cultivated in modern times. This is hardly surprising, for music possesses pre-eminently that power of giving pleasure—intellectual, emotional and sensual—which is the ultimate reason for the existence of any form of endeavor not directly connected with the means of life. From the beginning of the 19th century, when the greatest musical activity in history coincided with the birth of the present industrial civilization, music has spread through the layers of society with almost startling rapidity. Helped by the improving standard of living, and forced at last by the reckless spirit engendered by the war, the art of music at the present time would appear to have the fairest prospects. From thousands of factories, pianos, violins, gramophones and countless other musical instruments and machines are poured out to satisfy the increasing demands of a higher civilization. Every home has its piano or its gramophone; music teachers and conservatoriums encumber the streets; the stores are filled with songs, gramophone records, saxophones and sundries; every movie has its orchestra and every orchestra its audience. In short, the triumph of the Music Lover is complete.

There is, however, another side to the picture; and that is not a cheerful one. How many of these countless pianos are used at all? How much of the time and money spent with the teacher or the conservatorium attains its object? To what extent does the immense industry founded on this love of music justify its existence? The answer is not difficult to give, and the reason lies in the somewhat narrow views or interpretations on "pleasure" favored by the present generation. Perhaps the most common musical instrument—if instrument it can be called—is the gramophone; its manipulation is exceedingly simple—a child can use it, as the advertisement said; it has been vastly improved in recent years and it is capable of almost infinite variety. Here then is an instrument peculiarly fitted to minister to that love of music which we are told is a characteristic of our times; if, however, we examine any of the gramophone catalogues published to-day, we find that by far the greater number of records are of dance music, and that the small minority consists of that music which we would have expected to occupy the greater space. This would appear to indicate that the love of music is, perhaps, secondary to the love of dancing; and that it is secondary to something is the only conclusion to be arrived at after an examination of the other popular forms of musical activity. The many small orchestras in Montreal, for instance, are devoted entirely to Terpsichore; with the exception of a few of the more pretentious, which minister to her lusty sister the Movie.

Are we then to conclude that all these pianos, music teachers and conservatoriums; all the lessons of the musical giants of the past—Beethoven, Mozart, Bach and the rest, whose very names should thrill the listener; all these, and the art which their labors have built in two thousand years; are we to conclude that they are rightfully spent in providing a pleasant background for afternoon tea, or at best in supplying the rhythm necessary to the existence of the Fox Trot? Heaven forbid! Yet that is the state of things that we are fast approaching and the reason lies in the narrow conception of "pleasure" referred to above.

There is a tendency to take the line of least resistance in every phase of life, and in no place more than in the pursuit of pleasure. This is a very natural and in some ways a sensible attitude to take, but it is unfortunate in that the pleasure to be obtained in life is all the better and more wholesome for the trouble that is used in obtaining it. In music is this especially true. No particular expenditure of brain is required to appreciate dance music, for the simple reason that the rhythm is the only essential part of dance music—and no one listens to anything else. The so-called music supplied at movies and vaudeville shows and restaurants does not require any intelligence at all, because no one pays the slightest attention to it—it would be missed if it were not, so to speak, going on, but that's all. Where attention, and intelligence, are required is in the concert hall, and that is just where attention would repay us; unfortunately, we do not receive training in paying attention. The pleasure to be got from an intelligent hearing of an orchestral performance can not be realized by one who is not musically intelligent. It is perhaps the only form of pleasure that can be indulged to the utmost without ill effects; it nourishes itself, and grows stronger with time; before its steady glow the more vulgar pleasures "pale their ineffectual fires." If the world were properly appreciative of the rich stores of enjoyment left by past generations of poverty-stricken musicians—if the facilities for musical education which now exist were rightly employed and the love of music indeed a fact and not a mere shadow—then would our civilization approach more closely to the ideal.

LAST WARNING FOR JUNIORS

Com. and Sci. Juniors Are Reminded of Photographs For Yearbook.

The time draws nigh. Thursday is the last day on which the would-be B.Sc.'s and B.Com.'s for the year of 1922 can have their photographs taken for their class Yearbook. This is not a plea; it is a reminder, and beyond that, a warning. The list of men that this applies to was published in Friday's "Daily"—by this time, several, and, it is hoped, the major part of the list, have had appointments at the studio and "all is over and done."

But a last tip for those who have still neglected to have their picture taken in Science and Commerce: make it fast; it's to-day, to-morrow, Thursday—or never. You lose by your carelessness, and the Yearbook, although such is not to be desired, makes on the deal, for the price of one cut is saved by the failure of the man to have his picture taken.

At the bi-weekly meeting of the Yearbook Board last evening, Biography Forms were distributed to the class representatives for circulation among the men in the Junior years. These are to be filled in, as is indicated, by a friend, and returned without delay to the class representative. The total wording must not be in excess of thirty-five words. The form must be finally signed by the subject of the biography, and beneath this an indication made as to the class and faculty for filing purposes. All writing must be done inside the perforated square, to be later detached.

An example of a typical filled-in form is as follows:
Name—Adolphus Oscar Jones.

Activities at McGill—Pres. Comm. '29; Treasurer Patches Club '25; Sec'y Croquet Club '26; Manager Class Pool Team '26. Biography—Born Abdullah Kal. Arabia, 1885. Prep. School, Trafalgar Institute. Took prominent part in birthday ceremonies of third daughter of Turkish Sultan. Course—Economics of Storekeeping.

! TONE! TONE!

A charge levelled with some justice at the University of Manitoba is the carelessness in the dress and general appearance of many students. Visitors from other universities have commented on it, professors have deplored it, and anyone without too much self-satisfaction will admit it. There is, undeniably, a very great lack of attention to personal appearance, of bearing, of "tone" in too many students. Our buildings are largely responsible—they inspire regret, contempt—but never pride, and the bearing that pride gives. But even glorified garages are no justification for resembling garage men.

There is no single social function in the whole year—except the Medical Conversation—which is conducted on the lines that one expects university functions to be conducted. Many of our dances, with a few downward steps, would qualify for the application of the term "Shindig." Formal dances or formal social functions of any kind have ever been doomed to failure—the very word is generally sufficient to strike terror to the heart of the average student. It is only at formal social functions that we cannot be as lax as we please. Some sort of standard is, there, at least expected. Elsewhere the student feels, or appears to feel, that he can get away with anything—and he does. The result is a practical absence of the tone that one expects to mark the difference between a dance of the Hod Carriers' Union and university students.

This, of course, may simply be an isolated opinion in the student body.

THEATRES

THE PRINCESS.

An entertaining little comediella, "The Little Cottage," crammed full of girls and music, headlines the bill at the Princess this week. This feature, a much appreciated type of musical comedy, is the work of George Chooos. Several catchy songs and melodies are scattered through a popular plot, which is well supported by Frank Sinclair, Cliff Dixon and Mary Collins. They are upheld by a chorus with an attractive variety of costumes and a shimmy all their own.

Miss Mable Berra, prima donna and comic opera star, earned well merited applause. She is ably accompanied by J. Menzies Van Zandt, a clever young pianist.

A very large part of the comic element in the programme is provided by Handers and Millis. They have a winning personality which never fails to win a response from fun-loving theatre-goers. They offer some eccentric dancing, and with an ever ready line of clever tricks, have not a few novel ways of drawing a laugh. Until recently they were the comedy dancing features of "Listen Lester," and of other musical comedy successes.

Brown and O'Donnell have at least two brand new jokes, and add much to the amusement of the audience, while punning their way through a humorous skit entitled "Profiteering in Fun."

Brent Hayes, "The Master of the Banjo," proves that there is music in the banjo yet. Apart from his able interpretation of the more difficult compositions, and his pleasing rendering of simpler airs, he produces a dual effect from his banjo which is somewhat puzzling.

Earl Gates and Co. introduce some original steps and a catchy song or two in an act which proves attractive.

Fred and Daisy Rial, aerialists, present a novelty entitled "A Ring Flirtation." The comedy in the light theme which provides a background for a couple of daring and difficult feats is well supported by other comedians on the bill. "The Unusual Duo" open the programme with some clever work on roller skates.

GAYETY.

Dave Marlon's presentation of "The Land of the Impossible" opened to a full house on Monday afternoon. Emile (Jazz) Caspar was the leading man, and played his part well, first as Shimmie Sam, and then as King of the Island. Will Ward was also good, and introduced lots of mirth into the play. The leading roles on the feminine side of the cast were taken by Miss de Verdier and Miss Rose Bernard.

The best scene was, perhaps, the graveyard scene, in which Caspar probably acted the part of a drunken nigger. Mention must also be made of the Byron Brother's Saxophone Six, which was easily the best feature of the whole show. The rest of the cast was just average, and the show as a whole was but the same, not coming up to those presented the last two weeks.

ORPHEUM.

It is, indeed, a rare occasion when a theatre changes its programme each week makes a success of a play in two succeeding weeks. The Orpheum seems to have done it, however. It presents this week "The Tidal Wave," an emotional dealing with the sins and weaknesses. It shows us a man, who has a weakness for drink inherited (supposedly) from his father, but who has conquered his craving through force of will. Along comes another, and by sheer peridy and by playing on the other's vanity induces him to become drunk. Worse still, this malefactor is the other's own brother. Owing to his evil deed, his brother becomes a wanderer, an outcast, and ends up as a low beach-comber in the islands of the South Pacific in company with two other derelicts equally as low as he is. Here, by one of those queer tricks which Fate turns on men so often, he meets again with his brother who wronged him. This is ten years later, and the derelict's brother now has his former job, and is married to the girl whom the man he sinned against used to love. But he has not forgotten his ill doing.

It is certainly not outside the student body. Our social affairs are always respectable, and all that—but dignified, proper—seldom. The blame is to be attached to no one—it is simply conditions—conditions that may be remedied. The two or three professorial gowns we occasionally see are helpful in their way. May we be pardoned if we are impudent in suggesting that there might be more? The attention paid to patrons and patronesses might be more consistent. The appearance of many students might be more carefully tended. At present, there is little or no standard, and more thought of the matters mentioned would materially assist in creating one. Without some standard, our graduates will tend to be simply what they were when they entered, and will leave without the stamp of university environment. One expects university graduates to be turned out in a more dignified fashion than an abattoir turns out a string of sausages.—Manitoba.

SKI CLUB MAKE PREPARATIONS

Winners of Trials Will Comprise Team to Dartmouth.

The McGill Ski Club held a meeting in the Union yesterday afternoon and the work so far accomplished was reviewed and the members were told the plans for the coming trials and Carnivals.

At present the greatest interest centres around the trials which are to be held this week; the winners of which will comprise the team that will represent McGill at the Dartmouth and McGill Carnivals. It has been definitely decided that the jumping trials will be held over the senior jumps on Wednesday afternoon. The club has arranged to have the jumps on Cote des Neiges put in condition by that time. The proficiency test will take place sharp at 2.15 on the Park Slide, after which the jumping trials will take place. It is expected that Noble Birks of Macdonald will come in to participate in the trials and the McGill men will have to go the limit to defeat him as he is considered "one of the best" on skills.

The executive will have their picture taken for the Yearbook at 5 p.m. on Thursday. The dash will take place on Friday at 5 p.m. on the old Campus. All members must have their entries in for The Dash, Jumps and Proficiency by 6 p.m. to-night (Tuesday), as this is the latest that they will be accepted. It is hoped that everyone will enter who can.

The team that goes to Dartmouth will leave here a week from Wednesday and will be in Dartmouth Thursday, Friday and Saturday returning on Sunday. The Outing Club of Dartmouth have notified us that there will be plenty of entertainment for the team, other than the Carnival. They are holding their annual ball, also their musical club gives their annual musical comedy. The play and music is all written by Dartmouth men.

The McGill Ski Club also hopes to be able to entertain the visiting teams. On Friday evening, Feb. 25th, if the present arrangements are carried out, the club will hold an informal dance in the Union. On Saturday night they will attend the final bouts in the Assault-at-Arms, which is being held on that date.

The meeting also decided that the team shall all wear McGill colors when they go to Dartmouth.

The members are again reminded that all entries for the events, other than the cross-country run, close sharp at 6 p.m. to-night, Feb. 1st. Entries can be made in the Science, Arts or Medical Buildings, and also at the Union.

Neither has the girl forgotten her love for the man who disappeared ten years ago. The drunkard is unrecognizable now, but he poses as his own friend, and so plays on his brother's nature as to drive the latter well-nigh crazy. Towards the end of the third act he reveals himself. A fight follows, during which the brother who committed the wrong is killed by a poisoned dart thrown by a native girl of the island. In the end the drunkard returns home, and the play reaches the usual happy denouement.

The requisite amount of comedy was introduced, which is always necessary in a play of this sort. The scenic settings gave no occasion for adverse remark, and those depicting a South Sea island were excellent. For the initial performance there was a very small amount of prompting, which augurs well for the success of the piece at future performances.

The parts were all very well done; the character of "Liverpool," the Cockney, which provided a good deal of the humor of the play, was well done by Mr. Maurice Franklin, and he delighted the audience yesterday with his quaint dialogue and antics. The part of the drunkard, which called for much emotional acting, was carried out to perfection. Harvey Hayes does the character of the villain in a polished manner. One must remark also that the "off-stage stuff" was nicely done.

LOEW'S.

A good bill is presented at Loew's this week. The feature is Mary Pickford's latest film production, "The Love Light." It is a very remarkable picture, tragic and grim, with occasional bits of comedy to relieve its sadness. This is the first time Miss Pickford has acted in a tragedy, and she does some very fine emotional acting. This may initiate a new phase in her remarkable career.

Elwyn's Rag-O-Matimba's Band, the premier vaudeville act was not put on until the last show last night, owing to lateness in arriving. Tate and Tate do various acrobatic stunts. Williams and Taylor provide amusement in dance and song. Adrian and Company, laughing specialists, put on a good act, though it is somewhat overdone. Golden's presentation of "Dancing Supreme," completes the bill. It is a clever act from the land of Terpsichore, featuring Hamilton, Calvert and Romeo.
